PROFILE

Junior full-stack developer with over two years of experience in React and Next.js, delivering consistent, user-centric products in brand-driven environments. With a background in hospitality and a self-driven approach to learning, I bring strong business acumen and a commitment to customer satisfaction to my technical work. Experienced in collaborating with designers, working across the full stack — from API development to front-end delivery — and operating in Agile, CI/CD-driven teams. Known for adaptability, having worked across international deployments, and a continuous drive to grow. Seeking to add technical and strategic value in a full-time role.
